EXTRA PRESIDENT SAYS SHIP BILL WILL PASS

BOSTON FIGHTS BLIZZARD--SHIPS IN DANGER

WILSON SAYS SHIPPING BILL WILL BE PASSED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—The ship purchase bill is not doomed to defeat, President Wilson indicated today. He stated that the bill had been the subject of various conversations between the State Department and European diplomats, but that no protest of any kind had been made by European nations against the prospective purchase of foreign ships.

The President expressed the hope that the Progressive Republicans would support his measure when a few amendments were made to it that are not inconsistent with the purpose of the bill.

He told his callers that the bill ultimately would be passed. He made it clear that he was willing to have the ship purchase measure amended provided the amendments did not alter the general purpose of the bill. He would not commit the Senate Democrats as to the amendments, however, and said he was not expressing an opinion as to whether the amendments would be acceptable to them.

MAY BUILD STEAMSHIPS.

Senators Kenyon of Iowa, Clapp of Minnesota and Norris of Nebraska, three of the strongest Progressive Republicans in the Senate, conferred with the President, and it is understood that a general course of action was agreed upon. The President showed to them that the bill as it stands meets many of the objections which they have urged against it, and it is reported that they intimate that they would support the bill if it were further amended.

The President did not think that any Democratic vote would be lost because of the amendments which have been proposed.

He also pointed out that the government could build ships instead of purchasing them, if necessary, and advanced the opinion that it would not be difficult to construct tramp steamers in a short time.

To the best of his knowledge, he added, few of the German ships now interned in American harbors were of that type. This gave the inference that the administration does not contemplate buying belligerent ships.

SEEK TO MAKE BARGAIN.

The Democratic caucus in a two-hour session debated the acceptance of the offer of the Progressive Republicans to vote for the bill on condition that the purchase of interned ships be forbidden until it is shown that the government ships be leased out to private corporations. The only action, however, was to delegate Senators Fletcher of Florida, Martin of Virginia and Simmons of North Carolina to interview the seven recalcitrant Democratic Senators and to report later.

Immediately upon the close of morning business in the Senate the caucused Democrats showed their hand. Senator Shively of Indiana, chairman of the Committee on Pensions, asked unanimous consent that the omnibus pension bill be taken up and no objection was made. This development was taken to mean that the Democrats, not yet sure of their position, proposed to begin action on at least one of the appropriation bills while waiting to complete a bargain on the shipping bill, either with the recalcitrant Democrats or the Progressive Republicans.

Senator Poindexter of Washington today offered an amendment to the shipping bill providing that no vessels owned by belligerents should be purchased.

Senator Burton of Ohio offered resolutions calling upon the State Department for all information and correspondence in its possession indicating the attitude of belligerents toward our proposed purchase of interned ships and calling upon the Secretary of the Treasury for any correspondence thus far conducted looking toward the purchase of ships.

CELTIC AFLOAT, BUT IN GREAT STORM PERIL

Boston today fought the northest blizzard which promised to be its worst storm of the Winter. The Weather Man says the storm will continue through the night and tomorrow, easing up maybe tomorrow night.

During the height of the gale the U. S. supply ship Celtic with 175 officers and men on board went ashore on Half Moon Shoal in Nantucket Sound.

The vessel is now afloat in deep water off the end of the bar, but is still in a dangerous position. She was pounded and battered by the heavy seas.

In Boston six inches of snow had fallen up to 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The city had 2,000 men out cleaning up the streets and the Boston Elevated had 1,000 men clearing up its tracks. The storm will cost the city and the company about $50,000.

Mayor Curley ordered 1,100 unemployed citizens notified by special delivery letters to report for work at 1 o'clock to shovel snow.

These men had filed applications at the Mayor's office asking for work.

At 8 o'clock the revenue cutter Acushnet was rushed from New Bedford to the assistance of the supply ship. At the same time the United States ammunition ship Lebanon put out from Newport, R. I., in response to radio messages ordering her to aid the Celtic.

At Wood's Hole the belief was expressed that the forty to fifty-mile gale had driven the Celtic over the shoal, between the Cross Rip Lightship and Chatham. This is one of the most dangerous points on the coast, and the Celtic as she lay when last heard from was exposed to the full severity of today's northeaster.

STORM BLOCKS RESCUE.

The Celtic's danger was increased by the terrible sleet borne by the wind. This made the work of the rescue ships not only slow but hazardous. Off the Cape lifesavers could hardly see a hundred yards ahead of them. All the Cape life sav-

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 2.—Col. Charles Alexander of Providence, recently indicted by a federal grand jury in Chicago on a charge of violating the Mann act, according to his attorney, Henry W. Hayes, is at present in Canada.

When he was asked if Alexander's bail would be forfeited if he did not make his appearance in Chicago, he replied:

"Well, he isn't in Chicago, is he? And his bail has not been forfeited, has it? Well, there you are."

Earthquake Kills Man in England

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Earth shocks occurred last night in several districts in Yorkshire, one miner was killed and many had narrow escapes owing to the shaking down of coal in the pits. In some cases the pits were rendered unworkable by the fall of coal.

ALBERTSON HAD 11 KNIFE WOUNDS

District Attorney William J. Corcoran in his opening argument in the Wakefield murder trial at East Cambridge today declared that Maurice A. Albertson, the victim in the case, had been "evidently" killed alive by his slayers after being gagged and repeatedly stabbed.

Attorney Corcoran accused the defendants, Biagio Falbo, Ignazio Mordla and Luigi Grassanonia, of the murder, which he described as an "exceedingly atrocious crime."

Dr. Roscoe D. Perley, the medical examiner in the case, was the first witness, and he testified that Albertson, who was a jeweler of Lawrence, was not buried alive. At this the district attorney said he had been misinformed as to the victim's being "buried alive."

After Judge Irwin announced that court sessions in the case would be from 9:30 to 4:30 daily, District Attorney Corcoran began an address to the jury and told what evidence the State would offer as reason why the twelve arbiters of their fate should return a verdict which would consign the prisoners to the electric chair.

"DELIBERATE MURDER."

The District Attorney said he would prove there had been a deliberate and premeditated murder. The chief accusations he made were:

That Albertson was lured to Wake-

REPORT ORDER FOR MILITARY INQUIRY

The Joint Legislative Committee on Rules voted today to report the order for a legislative investigation of the military and naval preparedness of Massachusetts to resist an invasion or other attack.

The order is the one petitioned by former Secretary of the Navy George Von L. Meyer, former Governor Guild, J. Randolph Coolidge, Jr., Henry M. Whitney and others.

The inquiry would be made by a committee of five Representatives and two Senators, including the chairman of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs and the chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee. The committee would be empowered to call on the federal government for information.

Marshall Shooting Case Is Dismissed

Judge Hayden in Roxbury court today dismissed the case of Edward G. Marshall when his bride, Edna E. Marshall, denied that on January 15 he shot her with the intention of killing her in their apartment, No. 13 Bickerstaff street, Back Bay. Marshall and his wife left the courtroom arm-in-arm.

Early Spring; the Groundhog Sees No Shadow

Take it from Prof. Groundhog, we are to have a short Winter and a quick Spring.

Judging by today's weather bureau, Old "Doc" Winter hadn't heard anything about the groundhog's program.

Today was groundhog day. Every February 2 the G. H. comes up from underground quarters and peeks around to learn if he can see his shadow. Of course, if there is no sunshine, there is no shadow.

If he sees his shadow the G. H., according to the old story, dives back downstairs and curls up for another long sleep. He knows it is to be a hard Winter. But, if he sees no shadow of himself, he knows Spring is hurrying.

The G. H. saw no shadow today. He saw sleet and snow and felt the driving wind.

BRITISH REPULSE GERMAN ATTACK

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The tide of battle on the La Bassee front is nosing [illegible] has swung in favor of the British after a terrific engagement.

The official statement issued by the French War office this afternoon stated that the German launched a fierce assault against the British lines at Guinchy, near La Bassee, but the British rallied and in counter attacks not only regained all the ground they had lost, but took some German trenches in addition.

Heavy French artillery is bombarding the railway station at Nayon, where the Germans were carrying out commissary work.

In West Flanders German artillery has been carrying on a severe bombardment against Belgian works. The Paris official communique follows:

"The day of February 1 was marked by an increase of the intensity of the artillery duels on both sides.

"It was also noted by a series of German attacks of secondary importance, which were all repulsed with heavy losses to the enemy in proportion to the forces engaged.

"In Belgium the German heavy artillery has shown a great deal of activity upon the whole front occupied by the Belgian troops and especially against the several points of support which they (the Belgians) had captured some time ago.

"In the region of the Yser, around

MAPS OF ENTIRE CANADIAN RAILWAY SYSTEM ARE FOUND ON MAN HELD AS DYNAMITER

By BERT FORD,
Staff correspondent of the Boston American.

WOODSTOCK, N. B., Feb. 2.—A powerful, defiant man, giving the name of Emile Horne and claiming to be an officer in the engineering corps of the German army, was arrested at Vanceboro, Me., today, charged with being the dynamiter who blew up the Canadian end of the international railroad bridge of the Maine Central and Canadian Pacific Railways over the St. Croix River at Vanceboro at 1:30 this morning.

This bridge is an important link in Canada's transportation of grain, horses and other war material.

Plans of the entire railway system of the Dominion of Canada are said to have been found in Horne's possession, together with a sketch of the St. Croix River bridge, a German flag and a dynamite cap.

Horne is alleged to have admitted that he was sent to New York to achieve the destruction of this bridge, across which tons of beef, grain and other foodstuffs and quantities of horses have been freighted in hurried transportation from interior points in Canada to St. John, New Brunswick.

BELIEVED HIMSELF SAFE.

Horne is quoted by the police as saying when arrested in the Vanceboro Hotel:

"They can't do anything to me. I am in neutral territory now, you see."

The police said further that, when Horne was asked why he tried to destroy the bridge, he replied that his country is at war with Great Britain and that Canada is a part of the enemy's country.

The police report continues to quote Horne as saying:

"I came from New York, leaving there Friday night and arriving here (Vanceboro) on Saturday."

REPORT GERMAN HAS ADMITTED BLOWING UP CANADIAN BRIDGE

Horne's arrest came quickly. He was a stranger in the place and had given no particular account of himself. He talks with a decided foreign accent. A description of him was given to the authorities on each side of the international boundary and, at 7:30, Deputy Sheriff George W. Hoss went to Horne's room in the hotel and placed the man under arrest.

Horne's clothing was soaked and pieces of ice clung to it, indicating that he had been out in the blizzard. The fingers of his right hand were frost-bitten, as though he had been exposed in some work out doors or such delicate nature that he had to labor with bare hands.

MISJUDGED CHARGE.

The temperature last night dropped to 30 degrees below zero. There was much surprise that any one was able to set the dynamite trap and effect an explosion under such weather conditions.

The dynamite charge was powerful enough to have wrecked the entire bridge, but the dynamiter, evidently through haste, misjudged the placement of the charge. The force of the explosion was upward through the bridge, instead of throwing the abutment on the Canadian side.

The abutment did not recede in full force of the explosion the entire work would have crashed in the river and the heavy steel span would have been let down, putting the bridge hopelessly out of commission for the present at least. But the explosion shattered only part of the concrete wall. On the bridge the effect was more apparent. Sleepers were split and a girder was damaged. Temporary repairs were made so quickly that the operating department of the Maine Central announced the bridge to opened for traffic at 8 o'clock.

There is talk already of an international complication. The dynamite charge was placed inside the Canadian end of the bridge.

The question has arisen as to how the dynamiter reached the bridge. If a wire was laid across the international line the Maine side. If the dynamiter operated his battery from the Maine side he was on United States soil. This gives the affair a serious aspect. A man, reported to be a German army officer, standing on United States territory and working an electric apparatus which dynamited the Canadian end of the international bridge connecting the United States, a neutral country, with one of Great Britain's colonies.

"ACT OF WAR."

That Horn himself seized up the situation just that way is indicated in the remark quoted of him when he was arrested, that nothing could be done to him because he was in neutral territory and because he blew up the bridge "not as a crime, but as an act of war."

Meanwhile it is not to be determined whether the dynamiter is a German, an army officer and, if so, whether he acted under orders from the German War Office or simply upon his own initiative.

The authorities of Washington county, Maine, whose deputy sheriff put Horne under arrest, decided to wait orders from the federal government before going further. The facts were communicated to the federal authorities.

The Canadian authorities indicate that they will immediately demand the extradition of Horne on the ground that the dynamiting was committed on Dominion territory.

Horne is thirty-seven years old, is five feet, 11 inches tall, weighs about 200 pounds and is smooth shaven.

It had evidently been planned to destroy the entire Canadian end of the bridge and let the structure fall into the St. Croix River, but through haste or fear the dynamite was placed in such a position that the concussion went outward rather than inward, against the pier.

The shock was so great that it broke windows in McAdam on the Canadian side, and in Vanceboro on the American side and shattered the inhabitants of both towns. Many of the residents thought it was an earthquake. In Calais, Me., the shock was felt.

Scores tumbled out of bed to see what happened. Women and children were badly frightened. A large gang of section hands was at work immediately. Traffic was congested on both banks of the St. Croix. The bridge is built of steel and is about twelve years old. It has a span of 200 feet and rests on reinforced concrete abutments.

If the charge had been successful it would have entirely destroyed the structure and cut off the main highway of the Canadian Pacific railroad in its grain and other war shipments from Montreal to St. John.

More trains pass over this bridge during the Winter months for port service than any other bridge of the Canadian Pacific. That is why this bridge was evidently selected for destruction by the Germans or their sympathizers, according to the belief of the Canadian authorities.

A military investigation of the dynamiting is ordered, in addition to one being made by the railroad officials. Governor Josiah Wood of New Brunswick, who received the first news of the affair from the AMERICAN, said later:

"Immediately after I was told of the dynamiting I wired Ottawa and instructed the military authorities to take whatever steps they deemed necessary for investigation. It is something for the military to take care of."

The Vanceboro bridge was of vital importance to the Dominion and British governments in this war time.

The Dominion government has been making huge shipments of food and horses from St. John, New Brunswick, to England. The food and horses are assembled in the Canadian Northwest and sent across the Dominion eastward on the C. P. R.'s transcontinental system.

The Canadian Pacific uses the Maine Central lines for a quick cut-off across northern Maine from Mattawaunkeag, Me., to Vanceboro, on the New Brunswick border. The Maine Central is double-tracked along this stretch, which gives all the greater traffic facilities.

The Canadian Pacific has a one-track number line which makes a circuitous route to the St. John river down toward St. John, but the Maine Central cut-off, via the Vanceboro bridge, saves time in forwarding goods for St. John shipment.

It was Superintendent Grout who first confirmed the report of the bridge being dynamited. His statement that the eastern end of the bridge had been blown up gave rise to the belief that the structure was partially destroyed. But the statement from Ganong later indicated that the steel superstructure could be used for cars, if not for locomotives. Temporary repairs had been started up.

Assistant General Manager A. Price of the Canadian Pacific Railroad at Montreal was notified by the railroad operator of the Maine Central at Vanceboro. After ordering out several flagmen and wrecking crews Mr. Price sent an official notification of the explosion to the Governor of New Brunswick, at Fredericton, with a request for an international investigation of whatever sort it might seem necessary to the Governors.

BUILT IN 1910.

The bridge was a steel structure, built in 1910. It was 1,200 feet long, and supported on three granite piers. It crosses the St. Croix River, at this point the boundary between Canada and the United States.

The United States end of the bridge is part of the Maine Central system. The Maine Central, from Mattawamkeag, Me., to Vanceboro, carries the Canadian Pacific transcontinental traffic over its rails.

Superintendent Grout of the Canadian Pacific at St. John, N. B., conducted charge of that part of the road in which the bridge is situated, announced today that the bridge had been dynamited.

"The bridge was dynamited," he said. "The eastern end of the structure was wrecked by a bomb detonated with a time fuse, probably set a considerable time before the explosion. There has been a guard and a watchman on duty at the bridge, the guard during the day and the watchman during the night. The bomb must have been placed during the change of guards."

Arrow indicates bridge between Vanceboro, Me., and McAdam Junction, N.B. This bridge was of the utmost importance to Canada in rushing war material from the Canadian interior to the coast for shipment to England.

BRITISH REPULSE NEW GERMAN ATTACK

Germans Continue Desperate Battle in Poland, Again Threatening Warsaw.

Ypres, a very violent cannonade has taken place.

TAKE GERMAN TRENCHES.

"From the Lys to the Somme a German regiment attacked an English post near Guinchy and succeeded in throwing back the English, but the British by a series of counter attacks not only regained ground lost and later made some progress, capturing some of the enemy's trenches.

"The action referred to in the communique of February 1, 11 p. m., as having taken place along the road from Bethune to La Bassee, was particularly brilliant for our infantry. The troops of troops employed by the Germans in this fighting seems to have been at least a battalion.

"The two opening attacks were checked by our fire; the first succeeded in entering one of our trenches, but a counter attack made immediately with the bayonet permitted us to repulse the enemy. Some Germans succeeded in regaining their trenches. All the others were killed or found prisoners.

"Between the Somme and the Oise and along the front of the Aisne no important event has taken place with the exception of the German attacks made upon Beaumont Hamel, which was not renewed.

"Our heavy artillery has bombarded the railroad station at Nogon, where the enemy was carrying out his commissary work. One of the caused two explosions, the smoke of which hung in the air for more than two and one-half hours.

"In the region of Perthes our methodical progress continues. We have occupied another small forest to the northwest of this village.

"In the Vosges the enemy has attempted an attack upon the western corner of the forest of Ormont to the northeast of Troyon. This attack was immediately stopped."

DROP BOMBS IN ALSACE.

Only artillery duels in the western theatre of war are reported in an official statement given out by the British War Office this afternoon. South of the Vistula in the eastern theatre of war, it is said German attacks are progressing. The German statement follows:

"In the western theatre of war except artillery duels which took place at several points, there was no decisive developments.

"In the eastern theatre of war nothing of importance has happened on the East Prussian frontier.

"In Poland, north of the Vistula, engagements with Russian cavalry occurred in the neighborhood of Lipno, northwest of Serpec. Our attacks south of the Vistula are progressing."

The following note signed by the German chief of army administration was appended to the statement:

"The recent French official reports are pure inventions."

French aeroplanes have bombarded Muelhausen and Reichweiler, in upper Alsace, doing heavy damage, says a dispatch from Strassburg.

At Muelhausen the aviators concentrated their fire upon the railway station. Although chased by German airmen, the French aviators escaped. Reichweiler is three miles northwest of Muelhausen.

Fire set by German shells is sweeping the city of Thann, in Alsace, which is now held by the French, it is reported from Belfort.

GREAT BATTLE NEAR WARSAW.

Another great battle has developed east of Lowicz, in Poland, where furious attack and counter attack have been in progress for three days.

In an official statement issued at Petrograd today it was admitted that on Sunday the Russians holding the front near Bolimow were driven from their first line trenches, but later they regained some of these. The German losses are described as colossal.

The forces of Field Marshal von Hindenburg drove their furious assaults against the Russian centre despite the pounding of the Russian artillery. The fighting in that region indicates that the Germans are trying to launch another gainst Warsaw to divert the Russians from their operations in East Prussia.

The Russian official statement describing the great battle in the east follows:

"On Sunday the Germans concentrated a great force with artillery in the region of Sochoczew, Borjimow and Bolimow (east of Lowicz in Poland) and developed an offensive of great tenacity which compelled us to retire to our second line of trenches.

"LOSSES WERE COLOSSAL."

"The counter attacks by the Russians turned the Germans out of all the trenches they had occupied, causing them colossal losses. Simultaneously with the Borjimow attack the Germans carried out a series of determined assaults along a front from the village of Goulme to the hamlet of Mouhelj, these being supported by heavy artillery fire. We repulsed all these attacks partly by artillery and rifle fire and partly by the bayonet.

"Between noon and 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon the Germans, thanks to the activity of their artillery against our trenches, succeeded in carrying a part of them. At 2 o'clock we began a general counter attack and the result that toward evening on Sunday the enemy retained only a small part of our advance trenches. Thus the German success of Sunday in the vicinity of Borjimow was insignificant compared with the losses sustained by them through our fire and bayonet attacks.

"According to our military commanders our artillery inflicted immense damage upon the Germans, dispersing equals of assembled the enemy and reducing to silence a number of German batteries. As a result we were able to withstand the withering fire of the enemy.

"On the left bank of the Vistula front at the villages of Makow and Dyblin the enemy was thrown back to the line of the villages of Welesz and Nasiguewo, northwest of Wieckawek. The Germans, in retreating, abandoned at Makow many of their dead.

"By forcing the Germans back in this operation, the Russians have reached to within twenty-five miles of the town of Gombolod of Thorn."

ADVANCE IN CARPATHIANS.

"Fighting continues in the Carpathians. We continue to advance with success along the Nijnia-Polianka-Ludovika front.

"After the fighting in the Lipnodobrzin front it required sixty carriages to remove the enemy's wounded.

"German prisoners taken in the Borjimow district say that the German attacks on this front over a distance of one and a half kilometers cost the Germans between January 22 and January 30 over 6,000 killed, besides many wounded. In the Carpathians from January 26 to January 30 on the Nijnia Polianka-Wyzok front, we captured seventy-eight officers and 4,065 men and took several rapid-fire guns and machine cannon."

Appended to the official statement was the following note:

"The severe encounters on the Sochaczew-Bolimow front and on the Rawka and Bzura Rivers indicate that the Germans are making another attempt to move on Warsaw. The scene of the fighting in this region is about thirty miles from Warsaw."

An official Vienna dispatch denies that the Russians have invaded Hungary with a new army through Uszok Pass.

TURKS' LOSS 70,000.

Seventy thousand Turks were killed, wounded or taken captive by the Russians in the offensive made in the Caucasus, which ended with the rout of Enver Pasha's army at Kara Urgan and Sari-Kamysh.

These figures are given in the Bourse Gazette of Petrograd, an official Russian newspaper. One hundred and sixty thousand residents of Persia and Turkey have been left homeless through the devastation of the country by the Turkish armies.

Reports from Tiflis show the Russian victory in the vicinity of Gernus, south of Olty, resulted in annihilation of the only division which remained anything like intact after the Turkish defeats at Sari-Kamysh and Kara-Urgan.

After the capture of the staff of the division the Turks tried a flanking movement, but the plan was revealed, and by smart manoeuvres the Turks were brought into an impasse on the banks of the Olty River. The battle was fought under terrible conditions. Blinding squalls of snow descended upon the Russians as they scaled the mountain passes.

In spite of the exhausting march the Russians had sufficient reserve vitality to take the Turkish position by storm. The losses of the Turks were enormous. There was huge booty of munitions and provisions in addition to many prisoners.

Tiflis telegrams also speak indefinitely of attempts by the Turks to outflank the right wing of the Russian Sari-Kamysh column, having been repulsed with heavy losses, but the scene of these engagements is not specified

In the Choroc valley the Russians continue to make slow progress. The Turks there have ensconced themselves in almost inaccessible fastnesses and it is merely a question of time before they are dislodged.

It is reported the population of Trebizond is leaving that town in panic.

Earl Curzon Replies with Poem to the Germans' "Song of Hate"

TO THE GERMAN ARMY.

A NEW YEAR'S PRAYER, 1915.

By Earl Curzon of Kedleston.

I pray that every passing hour
Your hearts may bruise and beat,
I pray that every step you take
May search and sear your feet!
I pray that you may never more
May charm your eyes, your ears,
That you may march, through day and night,
Beneath a heaven of tears.
Blind to the humblest flowers that in
The hedgerow corners bloom,
Deaf to whatever sound or cry
May wake in you the memory
Of dear ones left at home.
I pray your guns may be anguished
Beneath the loam—our loam!
I pray the streams—our streams—may leap
In floods above their banks and
Your trampling hosts to doom!

I pray the spectres of our slain
May haunt you in your tents—
Vigil or sleep, whiche'er you seek—
Naught smelling but the bloody reek
Of our Holy Innocents.
I pray the ruins of our homes
May crush you like a worm,
Your brains beneath the torment reel,
Deaf from your hearts their fury steal,
Fear drive you like brute beasts that squeal
And fly before the storm!
I pray that you may live to writhe
Neath every pang we've known;
Then haply may Almighty God
Snare the supreme avenging rod,
The eternal anger of His nod,
And say the miles that you have trod
Shall of themselves atone!

MAY WHEAT GOES TO $1.64 A BUSHEL

May wheat sold at Chicago today at $1.64 a bushel, seven cents above yesterday's maximum price and the highest mark reached by wheat in seventeen years.

Following this new jump, flour at retail in Boston was expected to take another boost over the $9.10 per barrel price, at which it was quoted when the markets opened today. Grain experts said the present upward trend of wheat would result in four at $10 a barrel within a short time.

Another result may be the raising of bread prices in Boston to six cents for a five-cent loaf, and possibly twelve cents for the present ten-cent loaf.

Chicago bakers advanced their prices today, and at once every step in that city lifted the prices to six and twelve cents. At the same time prices of rolls, biscuits, cakes and other fine products.

The sharp increase in the May wheat price in Chicago automatically increased the price of wholesale flour in Boston fifteen cents per barrel. Wholesale quotations here today were: Standard patents, $7.90 to $8.35; fancy patents, $8.50 to $8.90.

HUNT FOR GIRL LOST IN RIVER

Police assisted by volunteers will start grappling through the ice of the Charles River, near the City Home in Newton, to recover the body of five-year-old Ellen Edwards, who was drowned, with her seven-year-old brother, William, by breaking through the thin ice to which they had ventured to recover a hand-made wooden arrow.

Theresa Ewart, seven years, saw his two playmates disappear through the ice, but said nothing of the accident until two hours afterward, when his father, John Ewart, superintendent of the City Home, asked him where Ellen and Billy were. Mrs. Harry L. Edwards, mother of the drowned children, and wife of the coachman for Robert Gould Shaw, 2nd, had telephoned to the Ewart home, thinking her missing children might have stayed to supper with Tommy.

When his father asked Tommy if he knew where the children were, he hesitated. He had been punished a week before for going near the river. Finally he answered, "Yes, I know. They're down in the river. I saw them fall in."

Accompanying his father and the band of neighbors hurriedly gathered together, little Tommy went to the river bank and pointed through the storm to the place on the ice where he had last seen his playmates.

The police were notified and arrived with grappling irons. They were unsuccessful, on account of the ice, until a boat had been secured, three-quarters of a mile away. Then the body of little William was recovered. Just when the searchers were about to give up the task.

Society Girls in "Sylvia" Smart Audience Applauds

Some of the ballet dancers in "Sylvia."

Long Awaited Production Given on the Stage of Boston Opera House.

The long awaited production of Leo Delibes' ballet, "Sylvia," was given on the stage of the Boston Opera House this afternoon before an audience of society and suffrage folk. The event was for the benefit of the Massachusetts Woman's Suffrage Association and the Red Cross Fund.

For weeks there have been busy rehearsals of the ballet and the performance was expected to prove one of the finest of the kind amateurs have ever rendered in this city. The ballet was produced under the direction of Miss Mary Kellogg of Winchester, a student of Delibes music.

Those taking part in the ballet were society folk mostly. Eben D. Jordan has given the use of the opera house.

The music for the ballet is among the most exquisite creations of one of the foremost composers of the day. The story deals of the ancient Greek days when mortals occasionally were given glimpses of immortal gods and goddesses. The setting for the ballet was specially designed by Robert G. Gifford of Brookline, a student at the Boston Museum Art School, who also designed some of the startling costumes. With foremost interpretative dancers and pantomime artists of Boston taking part, the long training they have undergone for this presentation, and the exquisite music of the ballet, it is doubtful if a more beautiful production of the sort has ever been ventured in this city.

MANY CASES OF RHEUMATISM NOW

Says We Must Keep Feet Dry, Avoid Exposure and Eat Less Meat.

Stay off the damp ground, avoid exposure, keep feet dry, eat less meat, drink lots of water, and above all take a spoonful of salts occasionally to keep down uric acid.

Rheumatism is caused by poisonous toxin, called uric acid, which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.—Advertisement.

Correct Way to Treat Skin Diseases.

Both air and water seem to have a bad effect upon skin diseases like Eczema, of which there are many forms. Keeping out the water and air is the first thing to do. Boiling Cuticura, the well-known remedy for skin diseases, with the water are excluded, because Cuticura contains retrolatum, and also white wax, and these form a tight covering over the sore places upon the skin. Cuticura also contains oil of cade, which has been successfully used many years by the medical profession in the treatment of Eczema and other skin troubles. If your skin is inflamed, irritated or sore, get a 25c box of Cuticura of your druggist and try it. The 25c also box contains nearly four times as much as the 50c size and is cheaper to buy.

Diseased Blood Calls for Help

Nature's Willing Workers are Always at Your Service.

If it is eczema, pimples, boils or worse—your safeguard is S. S. S., the famous blood purifier. It is always lined up to attack diseased blood. And it always does the work. It does the work after disappointment, after alleged specialists, mercury, iodides, strychnine, arsenic and other destructive drugs have reaped a harvest of mistakes and left a host of invalids guessing as to what is to come. S. S. S. is not such a drug as the ignorant or ignorance of man would be able to produce. It is Nature's wonderful contribution to our necessities. It is wonderful because it can not be imitated; can not be made any other way than to assemble Nature's products and produce what a host of men know as S. S. S., the world's great tonic medicine. There are people everywhere that had an old sore or ulcer that defied all the arts known. And yet S. S. S. taken into the blood just naturally put into that old sore the elements that made new tissue, new flesh, and covered it with a new coating of healthy skin. Get a bottle of S. S. S. today of any druggist and be on the way to perfect blood health. But beware of substitutes. For special advice consult the medical department. The Swift Specific Co., 55 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. TEACHER FIGHTS CASE; HIRES HALL

MILFORD, N. H., Feb. 2.—After investigating and considering for three weeks, complaints against Miss Ione S. Tyler, a teacher in the Milford High School, the School Committee, consisting of the Rev. William H. Walbridge, Arthur B. Beche and Mrs. Clinton A. McLane, has requested Miss Tyler's resignation. Miss Tyler refuses to leave, claiming the charges without foundation. She has hired the Town Hall for tomorrow night and will address the citizens in her own defence.

"The charges of the School Committee are without the slightest foundation. The only charges that could be preferred against me would naturally come from the students, but they are all with me and will be to the end," said Miss Tyler today.

Committeeman Roche says the charges are incompetency and poor influence.

Report Bill Aiding Home Stone Cutters

Good Housewives Make This Cough Syrup.

To quickly cure the most stubborn cough and break up a cold in six to eight hours, there is said to be nothing better than the following simple remedy, for it has been tried in thousands of cases with wonderful success. Its popularity is increasing because of its cheapness and positive curative virtues.

Obtain of druggist a 2½ oz. package of Essence Mentho-Laxene; empty into a pint bottle. Then make a syrup by pouring a half pint of boiling water over a pint of granulated sugar. Stir, cool and fill up the bottle with syrup. Full directions for use are enclosed in the package. This home-made syrup effects a saving, too, of from two to three dollars as compared with labeled cough medicines.—Advertisement.

Don't Be Misled If You Have Tuberculosis

No specific has been discovered for Tuberculosis, but Hohmann's Alterative has been applied in many cases. Read of this one:

12 Thompson St., New York.
"Gentlemen:—Five years ago last August I was taken to St. Francis' Hospital to be treated for bronchitis and congested lungs. After several weeks' treatment I was advised by the doctor to go to a convalescent sanitarium, but could not be admitted because the doctor at the hospital, after a thorough examination, declared my case Tubercular, and gave me a certificate to that effect. I showed the certificate to Father Stark, and he advised me to take Hohmann's Alterative. I took it faithfully, and soon found myself free from night sweats and fever. I have not taken the Alterative now for two years, and can truthfully say I am well. I feel better and am stronger than before my sickness." (Abbreviated.)

3 ON TRIAL FOR WAKEFIELD CRIME

field by lies and deceit on the part of Falzone and Grassadonio.

That the motive of the murderers was robbery, and that the murder itself was extremely atrocious. That Albertson was evidently buried alive as sand in his lungs showed that he breathed after being thrust into the grave and covered with dirt after being gagged and stabbed fortified times.

That Grassadonia planned the murder, inventing the story that gave the heedless to his doom and that actual murder was by Falzone and Morella.

That Falzone and Grassadonio went to Albertson's store in Lawrence and that Grassadonia told the storekeeper that Falzone was going to be killed and wanted to look at the fine jewelery.

That they made an appointment for Albertson to take jewelry valued at about $2,000 to Wakefield on Saturday, December 19, 1914, although Falzone was not working, had no money and did not intend to meet.

That Albertson was last seen alive when entering the automobile in Columbia road, Wakefield, and from there he was forced into the place at No. 24, where a gang had been laying for his body, while he was still alive and even before he arrived in Wakefield.

That after Falzone and Morella had murdered Albertson they took the jewelry he had brought with him, and Falzone then went to the police division police arrived and the murderers hastily separated and fled.

That when Falzone was arrested in Fitchburg wounds on his face showed he had been in a struggle and that upon him was jewelry afterwards identified as the property of the murdered man.

Dr. Roscoe H. Perley, medical examiner, testified he found eleven stab wounds in Albertson's body, six of them being near his heart. There was a cord around his neck. He believed Albertson was dead before he was buried.

This statement contradicted District Attorney Corcoran's opening address to the jury, in which he said he had been misinformed as to the cause of death. Dr. Perley said he believed it had taken more than one man to kill Albertson because he was so strong. Under cross examination by Attorney J. W. Sargent of Boston, Dr. Eugene, the medical examiner attributed death to stab wounds.

Samuel Albertson, brother and partner of the victim, said on December 17 Grassadonio and Falzone came to the Lawrence jewelry store and Grassadonia, who did all the talking, told Marie Albertson that Falzone wanted to buy jewelry to the amount of $500 for gifts to his prospective wife in Barcelona, the witness said, wanted better jewelry than was then shown them.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Don't stay gray! Nobody can tell when you darken gray, faded hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair, and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

Well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two it is restored to its natural color, and looks glossy, soft and abundant.—Advertisement.

NORTHEAST GALE IMPERILS SHIPS

ing stations gave up hope of being able to get out to help the Celtic.

The seriousness of the Celtic's situation was indicated by the conduct of the entire Assistant. Last night in response to a radio call the Acushnet steamed out from New Bedford, but halted in Buzzard's Bay for some reason, possibly on receipt of a wireless to the effect that the Celtic had put them in any immediate danger. However, there came another word about 8 a. m. today to the cutter to clear at once for Half Moon Shoal.

This was taken to mean that the Celtic was in great danger, in the menace of sea, wind and driving sleet.

The Shoal is about thirty miles off Wood's Hole and it was said the Acushnet might make the distance to make this journey because of the terrible weather conditions. The cutter was forced to head into the teeth of the gale.

The first word of the relief ship will be to take off the officers and crew of the Celtic. The supply ship was on its way to Cuba with supplies for the United States practice fleet at Guantanamo.

The ship left Boston Sunday night after several hours' delay due to an accident to one of the crew and to boiler trouble.

The Celtic was built in 1901, has a tonnage of 8,000, horsepower of 1800, is capable of making 16½ knots and carries 1400 all together when the commanding officer is lieutenant Douglas W. Edgerton.

The storm, an old-fashioned northeaster, was particularly severe with the Cape section. Hanson suffered greatly, an eighty-mile an hour gale sweeping over the city at 6 p. m. 10 inches which cut with whip-like severity.

Trolley and steam traffic was delayed. At the North and South stations trains ran from 15 to 20 to 30 minutes were reported in the suburban service. New York trains were from 20 minutes to an hour late and trains from the West were in cases several hours late.

Walking was exceedingly hazardous in places, and teaming was almost impossible until the employees had sprinkled boats of sand over the sleet storm.

STORM TO CONTINUE.

The weather man predicted more snow or sleet tonight and probably tomorrow.

By 10 a. m. five inches of snow had fallen in the city.

Shipping along the entire North Atlantic coast suffered. Northeast storm warnings were ordered from Eastport to Atlantic City.

Over seventy-five vessels put into Vineyard Sound during the storm. All night and through the day coast guards patrolled the Cape section, on the lookout for vessels in distress.

Four big tugs put into Wood's Hole today. They were the Scully, Standard, Carlisle and Greenough, and reported that they had anchored the barges they had in tow in the sound.

Nobska lighthouse, near Wood's Hole, reported having heard constantly steamers whistling practically all night. There was no boat from Nantucket or Martha's Vineyard today.

Two three-masters anchored under the lee of Handkerchief Shoal, and four schooners and two barges anchored off Nobska Point.

The storm area covered New England and the North Atlantic States generally.

From Point Pleasant, N. J., came word that the revenue cutter Mohawk had gone to the assistance of a four-masted schooner, which was drifting toward a reef off the New Jersey Coast.

In New York city steam and ferry traffic was crippled by the storm. Telegraph and telephone communication was also interrupted.

CAUSE HEAVY SEAS.

The wind increased in velocity this morning, while the temperature fell. At Highland Light at 8 o'clock the wind blew forty miles an hour, and at 9 it had increased to fifty. At 8 o'clock the temperature was 39 there. An hour later it had fallen to 24.

The gale caused a tremendous sea in Massachusetts Bay, and waves steadily grew in height and violence. Skippers of incoming craft said the snowfall was so thick at sea they could not see a ship's length ahead.

Most coastwise steamships plying between this and other ports remained in their docks. The Calvin Austin was held at Portland last night, the Belfast in the Penobscot River and the Governor Dingley in Boston.

"Safety first" was the sea motto.

Captain Johnson of the Merchants and Miners' liner Kershaw, which arrived in port today two hours late from Norfolk, reports a dangerous storm off Nantucket. At Boston Light the Kershaw passed a small tug which had one barge in tow. The tug was attempting to get back into port and was having a hard fight.

The supply ship Celtic, ashore on Half Moon Shoal, was also sighted by Captain Johnson. He also reported the gale boys at the entrance of Vineyard Sound. Also that Woods Hole was out, thus making navigation through the slew extremely perilous.

Eight hundred city men, battling with the storm since early morning, were reinforced at noon by 1,200 more supplied by six contractors.

The Elevated railway hired 1,000 extra men to help clear its tracks. It had out 175 plows and 125 teams and sleds.

$70,000 DEFICIT FOR CITY'S YEAR

Seventy thousand dollars of a deficit marked the first year of Mayor Curley's economy administration, according to the official book balancing for the fiscal municipal year completed by City Auditor J. Alfred Mitchell today. In accounting for this $70,000 deficit, Mayor Curley stated:

"Owing to dull business and the high interest rates that have prevailed, the taxpayer finds it more convenient to pay the city 8 per cent. interest on his overdue taxes than to borrow from outside sources. This deficit is only temporary and will in all probability be completely wiped out by the income received up to the close of business today. A similar situation obtained in the patic year of 1907 when the fiscal year closed with a deficit of $488,239.19.

"In 1907 the taxes collected amounted to 82.65 per cent. of the levy, while this year the collections were 85.10 per cent. of the levy."

FIND TWO GUILTY IN MAGRATH CASE

Fred L. Green was found guilty on one count of stealing $25 from the body of Timothy O'Brien at the Grove street morgue and two counts of conspiracy to steal and defame the character of Medical Examiner George M. Magrath. George W. Miller was found guilty on two similar counts of conspiracy, but not guilty on the charge of larceny.

The bail of Green and Miller was raised to $2,000. Sentence will be imposed later.

MAGRATH A WITNESS.

Medical Examiner Magrath was one of the witnesses in the case that has attracted a large crowd to the court room daily, including a large number of politicians. The case was one of unusual interest as the three men were charged with stealing $25 from the clothes of O'Brien, whose body was brought to the morgue on June 17 last.

Attorney Daniel J. Kiley defended Green and Miller, and John P. Feeney was counsel for Kingston. Assistant District Attorney Melsaacs hadled the case for the government.

The trial was of especial interest because on the verdict hinged the question of whether or not Dr. Magrath was to be reappointed medical examiner of Suffolk county. It was admitted during the trial that charges had been engineered against Magrath by looking to his being turned down for reappointment and that employes at the morgue were connected with the preparation of the charges.

Dr. Magrath has not been reappointed and is holding over on his old appointment until the Governor decides what to do in the case.

Dr. Magrath's friends declared, after the verdict was known, that this vindication of the medical examiner would bring about his reappointment by Governor Walsh.

PELLETIER TOOK ACTION.

Back of the whole case is an "inside story" of bitter politics and personal animus. When District Attorney Pelletier ran for the Democratic nomination for Governor he assailed certain Ward 8 politicians and investigated charges of voting irregularities.

When Dr. Magrath became aware of a conspiracy to oust him from office he impressed the District Attorney with his side of the case. Mr. Pelletier soon became convinced that certain politicians were instrumental in having the Magrath reappointment held up. The District Attorney also felt sure there was no foundation for the charge that Dr. Magrath had robbed bodies sent to the North Grove street morgue.

Police Inspector Lynch was put on the case, working under the personal direction of Mr. Pelletier. Indictments were returned in due time. Meanwhile Mr. Pelletier had made such representations to the Governor that final action on the medical examination question was held up.

MISS CUDAHY OUT AS NURSE; 'NERVES'

Helen Cudahy, the millionaire's daughter, who came out of the West to learn nursing at the Massachusetts General Hospital, has been forced to give up her life's ambition and is now at her home in Milwaukee a nervous wreck, according to dispatches today from that city.

Miss Cudahy, the daughter of the beef packer, came to Boston last April to study to be able to earn her own living only after five years spent in convincing her mother that such a course would not be "undignified." Her father, however, thinking the young woman was "showing the right spirit," as he expressed it, finally prevailed in the family councils.

"I thought the training meant taking care of the patients. I found a large part of it was housework and drudgery," said Miss Cudahy recently when she went home for a brief vacation. She returned to Boston, but found that the scenes of suffering she witnessed were too much for her oversympathetic nature and was forced to take brief periods of rest from the hospital routine. Her nervous system has now become so seriously affected she has been forced to give up nursing permanently.

HUSTIS 'EVASIVE,' DECLARES BAUER

The Essex County A[illegible] Chairman Macleod of [illegible] Public Service Commission [illegible] against the Boston & Maine [illegible] passenger fares [illegible] Hustis of that railroad is [illegible] "evasive" in his statement of [illegible] conditions.

"I think Hustis is charged with not telling 'the absolute truth and the whole truth.'

"President Bauer says the roads need the money. He says [illegible] attorneys for the railroads [illegible] American Express contract [illegible] if there is any "underground [illegible] that is not buying [illegible] cents in fare.

"Returning from a trip to Buffalo, N. Y., I find that the president of the Boston & Maine Railroad has made a report—not an answer to the statements presented to you by the Essex County Associated Boards of Trade—in reasons why the Boston & Maine Railroad fares should not be raised.

"I think it is a time in the history of the railroad world when the people should receive from those representing railroad properties the absolute truth and the whole truth, so specific that it carries conviction with its statement, that time is [illegible] in Massachusetts.

"President Hustis' reply was clearly evasive in that it did not pretend to do this. He assumes that reasons that were satisfactory to the railroad management, without an explanation as to 'why' and 'what' should be sufficient to your commission, absolutely ignoring the fact that the people of this Commonwealth, having been called upon to pay increased freight charges and very much higher passenger fares, have a positive right to know in detail that the railroads have exhausted every other means of increasing their revenues and decreasing their expenses before penalizing the people with increased rates.

"And those facts must not only be sufficient to the railroad management, but they must be to a still greater extent proven fair and right to the people whom they ask to pay these increases—they have a right to know, and eventually they are going to know, the absolute truth and in convincing details. An evasive general denial by a railroad president is no longer sufficient.

"As to the Boston & Maine Railroad being over-capitalized beyond its present sound physical valuation, we have only to look to this phrase in its broad sense to include stock—bonds and notes outstanding against the corporation—together with any other financial obligations that are not strictly running expenses. President Hustis attempts in his reply to narrow it down to the 'stock issued.'

"The vast amount of land owned by the railroad not necessary for railroad operating use should be sold in a deliberate, businesslike way, and the money received applied to 'betterments' and the taxes and other contingent expenses now paid out yearly on this land, being no longer necessary, will help reduce the general expense account. The people will be further benefited by this, because it will release property now held by the railroad to tie up water front areas and prevent their being used for their natural purposes.

"In an efficient and business like way of disposing of this property that is not necessary for railroad operation there is a vast difference between an assumed willingness to dispose of such property and a real effort to sell the same. The real estate department of the Boston & Maine Railroad is inefficiently and imprudently conducted—conditions which spell ruin to any successful business corporation except possibly a cemetery corporation.

URGES STATE TO TAKE B.-M. STOCK

State ownership of the New Haven's stock in the Boston & Maine Railroad was demanded by Ex-Senator Charles S. Hatlank today as necessary to protect the minority stockholders against the further financial depredations of Wall Street. He spoke before the Legislative Committee on Railroads in behalf of the Progressive party bill to provide that the B. & M. stock shall be acquired by the State and voted for the common good of all the people.

"Railroads are our receivership cases," he said, "and we are asking for the financial interests of the people to be protected, not only the banks of a community, but the laboring man, the milkman who sees over the share ownership of the stock, should be acquired by the State.

"According to the latest but not confirmed report of the Boston and Maine Receiver Barnard said, 'If he is sidetracked and ignored I vote here and understand a board of the Boston & Maine stockholders will appear before the committee and plead with tears in their eyes that the property rights should be protected.' Gentlemen, I am not the tears and orphans, but the tears I've been associated with in my time are those on Main streets. It is time at least that they have the widow and child in view for whom they were so solicitous a year ago.

MEDFORD MAN'S CASE PUZZLED HOSPITAL STAFF JOINTS WERE STIFF—GROWING TOGETHER

Back to Work at Barber Shop After Two Years in Hospital, Declares It's No Secret---Public Should Know Facts

MR. THOMAS B. BRENNAN.

INTERIOR OF BARBER SHOP AT 57 MAIN ST., MEDFORD, MASS., SHOWING MR. BRENNAN AT WORK.

"What! A statement about my case? Well, it's no secret, and although I dislike publicity I think the public should know the facts; it may be the means of relieving others afflicted as I was," said Thomas B. Brennan of 57 Main street, Medford, Mass., as he put the finishing touches to the close shave that the old gentleman requested.

"I have been working here since July and came direct from the hospital after spending two years in that institution. Don't look like a very sick man, do I? Don't look like a man that spent considerable time in a wheel chair, do I? In 1910 I contracted what the doctors called Arthritis Deformans, or rheumatism of the joints. The disease involved my toes, feet, knee, hip, neck, shoulders, arms and fingers. Both arms were deformed and I could move them but very little on account of the stiffness and pain.

"Read this," he said, passing over a legal looking document, which proved to be the hospital physician's certificate describing Mr. Brennan's case, and read as follows:

PHYSICIAN'S AFFIDAVIT

Thomas B. Brennan has been in the ——Hospital since March 2, 1911, and is suffering from Arthritis Deformans. Left arm is flexed at the elbow joint and is completely ankylosed, movements of the shoulder joint are limited. Right arm is flexed at elbow joint and motion quite limited, some[illegible]

The doctor's certificate was made out by a Government physician in order for Mr. Brennan to secure a pension, as he was a member of Co. I, 42d Regt. Inf. Vol. It proves his case a severe one and failed to respond to hospital treatment. This certificate may be seen by anyone calling on Mr. Brennan at 57 Main street, Medford, which is only 12 minutes from Sullivan Square.

"At the time I secured the doctor's certificate I was ready to apply for a pension, but [illegible] of the recovery of a number of people who suffered from this same disease, some of them just as helpless, I investigated and found the remedy to be Var-ne-als, and he continued, "I thought if it would do as much for these people, why wouldn't it do the same for me?

"I immediately started to take Var-ne-als, while in the hospital, in spite of the fact that other patients ridiculed me for taking a remedy that was advertised to the public. I wanted results and didn't care what was said as long as I regained my health. These same people soon saw an improvement and as I gradually recovered became as enthusiastic about Var-ne-als as myself. After taking the remedy nine months and finding myself strong enough, I suggested to my doctor that I was going to work. He said, 'Bosh, you'll be back in 20 days flat on your back.' However, I left the hospital last July and came directly to work here at my trade, where I have been, ever since."

Meet this man. Investigate. It will only take you 12 minutes from Sullivan Square, Boston, to reach him. Get the doctor's name and the name of the hospital where he spent two years, a great part of the time in a wheel chair. He came directly from the institution to work shaving and cutting hair at his present address, where he may be seen every day.

It is the duty of every rheumatic sufferer to investigate the truth of this statement. If not true it is the duty of the authorities to investigate.

BOWLERS FIGHT HARD FOR SECOND PLACE IN THE GREATER BOSTON LEAGUE

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTING NEWS

GRIFFITHS WINNER ... NO-DECISION BOUT AGAINST WELSH

BOWLERS IN HOT FIGHT FOR LEAGUE BERTH

By J. P. MURPHY.

WITH Bowdoin Square in supreme command of the Greater Boston Bowling League, for the present at least, interest has shifted to the fight for second place. This battle is growing warmer with each succeeding week.

Three teams are in the scramble for the runner-up berth, namely, Murray and Cambridge Arms, who are tied for the position, and Rowe's Wharf, which is but two points behind. Eggleston Square is also within hailing distance of the leaders, and with a good night may enter the real fight next week.

TONIGHT will see Murray and Cambridge engaged in a tussle at the Murray alleys, and one of the best matches of the season should ensue. Murray is making desperate efforts to get back the lead, which it lost after a good start early in the season. To many this seems out of the question, but the Soule Co. rollers have the confidence and hope to start the ball a-rolling upward with a victory over the Cambies this evening.

MEANWHILE Bowdoin Square has everything in its favor, as it tackles the tail-end Regal Shoe on the home lanes and will undoubtedly have an easy time of it. Bowdoin Square is seasoned and organized and not likely to crack under fire.

ROWE'S WHARF has a fine opportunity to pass into the runner-up position, as it will have Brunswick Loop as its opponent, and as the latter is clinging close to the second it looks like a romp for the Avenue peggers.

Castle will wend its way to Forest Hills this evening to meet the Eggleston Square team, while Winthrop will take a jaunt to Charlestown, where it will tackle the Terminal quintet.

OXFORD is in for another stiff test in the Amateur Bowling League tonight, and unless the Lynn bowlers show a return to form the Arlington Boat Club is apt to put a severe crimp on their championship aspirations. When everything seemed in reverse for the Oxfords a week ago, the Colonials came along and handed them a trimming, forcing them into a second place tie.

THE championship of the Suburban Knights of Pythias League may be settled tonight. And then again it may not. It all depends on the outcome of the match between Lexington and Marathon. These two teams are tied for first place and to date have outlinated the field. They met twice before this season, each team scoring a clean sweep.

* * *

HARK! From out of the wilds of Maine comes a challenge. It is directed at George Arafe and Charlie Fleming, who claim the eighteen-year-old championship of Massachusetts. It seems that Milo, Me., has two youngsters whom it considers better than the Bay State "champs." Hence the call. Leroy F. Shaw and Harry E. Kerr are the Maine boys, and they have invited Arafe and Fleming to do battle in Milo. The latter pair have accepted and will go to Milo as soon as the necessary arrangements are made.

New Bowling Rules Score Prize Entries Pouring In

Ban on Big Leaguers Proves Popular Move in American's Contest.

According to all known signs, the fourth week of the Boston AMERICAN bowling contest is going to be another record breaker. The know signs naturally are the entries that come in, and they sure are coming in by the cart load.

The new rules of contest which bar the rollers in the recognized big leagues and make twenty men eligible for the weekly rolloff are like-wise proving popular. Though it's still rather early, the rules having been published for the first time in the Sunday AMERICAN, enough comment has come our way in to make us sure that the new ideas are a big hit.

The first rule, putting the ban on the big leaguers, gives the semi-pro and out amateurs more of a show, while the added entries makes the rolled proposition admittedly one of the best things the game hereabouts has ever known, all the more exciting.

Just for safety's sake, here are the new rules in the contest.

No bowler who is a member, or has been a member of any team in the City League, the Greater Boston League or the Suburban League, is eligible in the AMERICAN contest.

The weekly rolloff will be after have twenty contestants, the ten highest bollers, who have scored more than 350 and the ten rollers scoring 350 or under. If not more than ten have rolled 350 the leading ten will be eligible and the next ten in order.

There are three more days of this week's tourney, today, tomorrow and Thursday. With 350 scores making rollers eligible, there's plenty of chance for any mark over 300 to get in on the prize clash. So when you bowl three good strings, though they may look rather low in the light of past contest performances, send them along.

As regards the women's part of the contest, which is getting bigger and bigger all the time, the Contest Editor has practically assured the writer that at the close of the contest there will be a big rolloff for the women.

And it will be for not only the prize winners, but for those sending good scores as well.

So you lady bowler, when you roll three strings, fill out a blank and send it in. Then you may have a chance to get in on the first real big league ladies' bowling contest ever held in Boston.

The following prizes will be awarded each week:

First Prize	$20.00
Second Prize	10.00
Third Prize	5.00
Special Woman's Prize	5.00

The prizes will consist of merchandise. You can have anything you want at any store you choose to the value of the prize won, and the Boston AMERICAN will pay the bill. The merchandising prizes are given to protect you against becoming professionals.

RULES FOR BOSTON AMERICAN'S GREAT BOWLING CONTEST

1. The prizes, in order, not to exceed in the values of a weekly merchandising coupon to be issued by the AMERICAN.

2. Those eligible to enter this Saturday tournament are any bowler in the city limits who make the two highest scores from the consecutive strings, tabulation as described below in Rules 5 and 8, and the six highest 300 or under.

3. The contest is open to anybody who bowls three consecutive strings, candlepins, on any alley in Greater Boston, and who is not at present a member of any City League, Suburban League or Greater Boston League team.

4. Each bowler who wishes to enter must be a reader of the Boston AMERICAN. Bowling Contest on a coupon, published in another column, and fill it out himself. Your enrollment must be in the hands of the Contest Editor of the AMERICAN not later than your first game. One enrollment coupon will suffice for the entire season.

5. Bowlers may roll their three strings any time during the week, beginning Tuesday morning at 12 o'clock midnight, to Thursday midnight.

6. After you have bowled your three strings fill in the total on the "scoring coupon" published in the AMERICAN, sign your name and address, and have proprietor or manager of the alley where you bowled sign it, and he will then write name of alley, number of alleys, and send on listing as above. Scores must be received at the office of the Boston AMERICAN, Washington square, BEFORE NOON ON SATURDAY. Any scores received after that time will not be counted. Your score will be published in the Sunday issue of the AMERICAN, and your position in the contest will be announced.

7. Any person who has already won a prize in the contest will be barred from further prizes.

8. A special woman's prize will go to the woman making the highest score in any alley in Greater Boston. No rolloff will be held on this. The ten leaders holding the highest three consecutive strings at the end of the week will be eligible for the weekly rolloff if there are ten bowlers with scores of more than 300, but twenty leading men will be eligible for the rolloff if there are not ten bowlers with scores of more than 300. The tabulation for the rolloff will be made from the highest string rolled by the contestant in the Boston AMERICAN on the Saturday following the close of each week's contest. The ten bowlers with the highest scores in regular rolloff will be entered in the AMERICAN'S Grand Rolloff, which will be held at the end of the season, for the championship of the AMERICAN'S BOWLING CONTEST. Further information relative to the Grand Rolloff will be announced later.

Hoosier Feds Ran Short of Money

According to a statement credited to Harry Nelly, former secretary of the Kansas City Federal League club, even the champion Indianapolis team did not have money enough to pay its last three pay rolls last season until Robert Ward of the Brooklyn club came to the rescue.

Nelly explains the sale of Falkenberg of Indianapolis and Callahan of Kansas City, two of the most effective pitchers in the league, to Brooklyn as being the result of the financial weakness of these two clubs. He says these two clubs failed to meet the last three pay rolls and that there would have been a scandal had not the Wards come to the aid of these clubs with a bank roll. It was to compensate them for this that the two pitchers were turned over to the Brooklyn Feds.

Two Clubs Dropped by Eastern League

NEW HAVEN, Ct., Feb. 2.—Waterbury and New Britain have been dropped from the Eastern Baseball Association.

This reduces the circuit to a six-team league, made up of Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport and New London in Connecticut, and Springfield and Pittsfield in Massachusetts.

The much-discussed subject of possible consolidation of the Eastern Association and the New England League was dismissed by the directors with brief discussion, as was the proposed invasion of New England by the Federal League.

$50,000 in Auto Prizes.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Sanction for a 500 mile automobile race on the Chicago Speedway June 19 was granted by the American Automobile Association. The new racing course is being constructed in Maywood, a suburb. Purses exceeding $50,000 will be offered.

MOTOR NOTES

By J. C. KERRISON.

It is difficult to see just how the committee of roads and bridges can dispose of all the business it has scheduled for its consideration tomorrow. There are no less than twenty-one proposed measures dealing with automobiles that are assigned for a hearing and if each one is to be given any lengthy consideration, the hearing will extend over quite a period of time.

It is true that the great majority of these measures should not be given any consideration as they would only serve to bring about additional confusion in the laws relating to the automobile.

Some of the measures, however, are important and to give them proper consideration would require at least one hearing alone. There are measures dealing with the question of glaring headlights, others relate to speed, and still others relate to the erection of sign posts, a matter for which there is already on the statutes sufficient law, the only thing is it is not being enforced.

Among the bills proposed is one requiring that all motor owners and drivers carry accident insurance upon their cars. This is in itself absolutely class legislation and should be given leave to withdraw without any extended hearing. Another bill is one providing that a motorist shall cease to operate his car when suit for damages have been brought against him.

The hearing will open at ten o'clock tomorrow morning and it is safe to say that the automobile interests will be pretty well represented.

Joseph B. Doe, a prominent attorney of Milwaukee, has received a letter from a relative "in the war zone" who, after describing the tremendous labor, hardship and cost of motor transportation in the motor country, concludes with the significant statement: "The Ford car is the mechanical marvel of the war."

No less than sixteen cars are nominated for the Vanderbilt Cup race which will be run at Frisco on Washington's birthday, and a like number of entrants are to participate in the Grand Prize contest which is to be run on February 27.

STOPS FALLING HAIR

This Home Made Mixture Stops Dandruff and Falling Hair and Aids Its Growth.

To a half-pint of water add:

Bay Rum ..... 1 oz.
Barbo Compound..... a small box
Glycerine ..... ½ oz.

These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist or very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until all the mixture is used. A half-pint should be enough to rid the head of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out, relieves itching and scalp diseases.

Although it is not a dye, it acts upon the hair roots and will darken streaked, faded, gray hair in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.

Your Shaving Comfort!

¶Most men shave "on the run."
¶More time given to shaving, or in "getting ready," soon discloses many hitherto unrealized joys of shaving one's self.
¶Early morning shaving is considered best for the face, because the flesh and skin have had a chance to relax and get in a normal condition during the night.
¶The face should be carefully washed and wiped dry before the first lather is applied.
¶Work in the lather with the brush, or a rubber beard softener, and not the fingers. Then use the razor.
¶A razor never "pulls" a beard that has been properly prepared.

GILBERT GALLANT RE... TO RESUME WORK IN RING FOR TITLE BOUT

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTING NEWS

B. A. A. AND THE ARENA HOCKEY TEAMS BATTLE IN FIRST OF CUP SERIES

GALLANT TO GET BUSY IN RING AGAIN

By JACK CONWAY.

"GILBERT GALLANT is ready to exchange punches with the near old lightweights once again," declared Alex McLean today as he breezed into the sporting department. "A boxer never got rich by spending his time in a gymnasium," continued the Revere man, "and so I have arranged a long campaign for Chelsea's stream of box fighter.

"My protege will commence hostilities before the Broadway Sporting Club in Brooklyn next Tuesday night. He will be opposed by a young man by the name of Phil Bloom in a ten round canter.

"Bloom has made a fine record in his New York bouts and is a big card. He fought Jimmy Duffy in Buffalo the other night and was only beaten by a small margin. Bloom has engaged in several tussles with Leach Cross and has always given the dentist-fighter a merry argument.

"THE Brooklyn promoter tried to get Sam Robideau to clash with Gallant. The Quaker, however, refused to meet Gallant. He evidently believes in 'safety first' and is not taking any unnecessary chances.

"I have also been promised another bout for Gallant at Bridgeport, Ct. The contest will take place on either February 16 or 17. It was originally planned to have Robideau as Gallant's opponent but the Philadelphia favorite refused to sign the articles of agreement. We may be able to corner Robideau when the Atlas A. A. resumes promoting matches in April. In the meantime we shall play low and do a little watchful waiting and incidentally dispose of some of our noble lightweights."

A GREAT deal of interest is being shown in the twelve round bout between Frankie Mack and Walter Butler, the rival Beachmont lightweights, which will be staged before the Unity Cycle Club in Lawrence Thursday night. Both boys are doing more than the ordinary amount of training for the tussle and will enter the ring ready to put up the battle of their young lives.

The writer received a letter today from Leo Flynn, manager of Mack. Flynn made the following remarks:

"I am sure that Mack will dispose of Butler. I realize of course, that Luther is a strong, aggressive fighter with a severe punch in each hand but I believe that Frankie will prove too fast for him. Mack has also had more experience than Butler and this will give him an edge on his rival."

JETTY DOWD, manager of Butler, is just as confident that his star puncher will breeze in a winner. Dowd asserts that Butler will force the fighting from the time that the drop of the chimes ring in the opening session until the contest comes to an end. Butler plans to keep in close and smash away at Mack's body. By following such a campaign he contends that he will wear Mack down and make it impossible for the latter to do much clever footwork.

A big crowd of "fans" is expected to witness the "go." The house should be the largest which has witnessed a boxing match in Lawrence since Gilbert Gallant and Steve Kennedy engaged in their much talked of battle.

JIMMY COFFROTH, who promoted scores of championship ring battles in California, is planning to invade Mexico. Coffroth intends to build a club in Tia Juana, which is just across the American border. Tia Juana is also within easy reach of San Francisco and San Diego. Consequently Coffroth will be able to draw part of his crowds from California. Tia Juana is a wide open town. There is all kinds of gambling there from faro to roulette. It is also planned to introduce horse racing into this border town on a big scale. Tom Williams, of California racing magnate, and Colonel Matt Winn, who are the big men in the Juarez racing world, are behind the movement.

Harvard Has No Fear of Yale in Landing Big Meet

The report that Yale will seek to stage the next intercollegiate track meet is not causing much consternation at Harvard, for the simple fact that the Crimson is now an avowed candidate for the games, and besides, the New Haven college has no field that will answer the purpose of conducting such a fine list of events, as far as beating a large crowd is concerned.

The Yale bowl will accommodate over 60,000 spectators, but there is no track within it, nor is there any paraphernalia necessary to conduct a track meet.

Even if work was rushed towards constructing a track, it would be impossible to have it in condition to work on properly in less than a year.

Volkmann on Outs with Huntington

Volkmann School has severed athletic relations with the Huntington school and has cancelled its baseball date. The action is taken as a result of what Volkmann considered a number of impositions previous to last week's dual meet. Among other things they felt that Losero, the Huntington school 1,000-yard runner, should not have been allowed to compete, inasmuch as he was not on the school register when negotiations were completed.

SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

Branca Rickey, manager of the Browns, is a modest man. He begins the year with the vehement announcement that his team will not win the American League pennant. But he says it looks like first division for him. Rickey does not believe in boosting his stock any higher than it really should be.

He will find that many will agree with him. In fact, I am one of them. I do not believe the Browns will win the American League pennant. Shake, Mr. Rickey.

The manager of the Browns says he will play Jack O'Leary, the husky Waltham lad, behind the bat this season. Jack was wished on the Browns last season by the National Commission, and he made good in fine style at first base.

Carl Timmersman, who pitched for Peoria last season, tells the following narrative regarding Clarence Rowland's grit. "Timmy" says they make no nervier than Clarence.

"Our last series of the season was with Davenport," remarked Carl. "The fans there were after us hot and heavy, and especially on the trail of Rowland. The reason for this was we always gave the Iowans a battle.

"The day before the schedule wound up we were nicely trimming Davenport when a fan threw a zinc-colored muskmelon on the field with a burning fuse attached.

"This whizzed past Anthony Carlo's head and dropped at Rowland's feet. Carlo, who was on first, started to sprint for the fence, thinking it was a bomb, but Rowland was accustomed to such things. He simply stepped on the fuse and made Carlo come back.

"We won the game and the Davenport fans threw bricks, stones and sticks at us as we went to the bus. They kept it up after we got inside, and there was danger of somebody's getting hurt.

"The hail of missiles continued as we drove out of the ball park, and finally the driver got out, refusing to take any further chance.

"Here, let me take those reins,' exclaimed Manager Rowland. And he sat there in front, defying the crowd, and drove until we got near the police station.

"About three blocks from the hotel one of the horses dropped dead. I can still hear Rowland's words when he yelled out at the officers in the police station for the prisoners' protection they had given the visiting team. 'They can never say that Rowland isn't game, for he is all of that and then some added for good measure.

I wished something fierce on myself when I started that "Manager's Contest." I could hardly see my desk today for letters from fans who want to win that pair of tickets to the opening game.

The Editor won't allow me space to print the letters. He says it would take a page a day of the AMERICAN. However, here are a few, just to give the readers an idea of how they are picking 'em.:

I select the following as my team: Pitchers, Johnson, Wahlberg, Leonard, Ragon, and Rudolph of the Braves; catchers, Gowdy, Rariden, and Corhan of the Red Sox; First base, Hunter, of Brooklyn; second base, Collins, of the Red Sox; shortstop, Maranville, Braves; third base, Baumgardner, Yankees; left field, Burns, New York; center field, Tris Speaker, and right field, Oakes, Detroit. As manager of this team I would vote for McGraw of the Giants on account of his experience in handling a championship club.

You didn't read the rules of the contest correctly, Richard. Your list is N. G. because the initials of the players you select are not the same as the manager. See some of the other answers in this column.

Dear Rabbit: I think your scheme a dandy and so am burning up mail. White Coach Mack sized up a good infield. I do not think much of his outfield. Mack could get a good team, but I prefer a team of my own selection. Here it is: Catcher, Chapman, s.s.; Cutshaw, 3b.; Donnelly, 1.f.; Cobb, c.f.; Crawford, r.f.; Carrigan, c.; Cady, s.s.; Collins, p.; Cicotte, p.; Cheney, p.

A Story of Love and Laughter Based on the Great Comedy Success of the Same Name

SYNOPSIS.

THE Eureka Digestive Pill Company is composed of two partners, George Nettleton and T. Bogus Johns. Nettleton inherited the business from his father and took Johns into the firm because he invented an inviting purple cover for the pill. Everything would be all right except for the fact that the partners are financially jealous of each other, and are continually quarrelling. The scene opens with Jimmy, the office boy; Sally, the stenographer, and Krome, the bookkeeper, wondering how long the fighting between the partners is going to keep up. Tony Toler, chief salesman for the company, arrives and announces that Applegate, president of the Northwestern Drug Company, will be in to sign a big contract. The partners are overjoyed and promise Tony a third partnership in the firm when the contract is signed.

AND very grudgingly Nettleton was forced to agree. "Well, I guess he's right for the first time since I've known him. Now, bring Applegate, Tony, and I'll sign the contract."

"We'll sign it," snapped Johns in a manner that failed entirely to suit an wholesome appearance of pleasant good-nature.

THE WOMEN IN THE CASE.

"You watch little Tony Toler!" cried that young gentleman, arranging his hat on the side of his head and bounding out of the office in a manner meant to impress Sally Parker and the higher dignitaries of the Eureka Digestive Pill Company. He almost bounced into the pretty Mrs. Nettleton, and, as he received that lady's formidable desk-table and the digni fied Mr. Johns deposited his six feet of bone and brown beside her. He managed to eliminate any visible sug gestion of his bluish, white cheeks and her blue charmeuse. As he held open the ponderous portal of the office box it seemed as if the office that had reverberated so often to the angry tones of the partners was to have a new thrill.

"Oh, my!" Two diamonds and a ruby. "Why, it fits perfectly exquisite. Where for?"

But even as she spoke Miss Cole began stripping off the long white glove.

Johns leaned closer. His manner had taken on a quiet assurance that quite strengthened the pleading in his eyes.

"For the finest, jolliest, loveliest, most beautiful, most wonderful little scout between Iceland and the Panama Canal," for the greatest, most glorious, most"—

Florence giggled not a little laugh that betokened the most wholehearted as well as the most practical little person between Alaska and Cuba and certainly in the offices of the Eureka Digestive Pill Company!

"Why, Mr. Johns, surely one like that! Slip it on with a wish."

And a white finger laid its cool slenderness on Johns hammering pulse.

"I wish the ceremony—Hello, what's that ring"—and Mr. Johns pulled his own jewel uncertainly above the third digit of a certain left hand.

"Oh, that ring! That ring! That's my ring!"

SLIPS ON RING.

"Exactly! Who gave it to you? What's it doing on that finger? Did Vanderholt?" Johns was not finding this interview much to his liking. He wondered vaguely if the office boy had bowled out of everything most of a certainty go wrong there.

"Your lawyer?" carolled Florence, with a sigh little laugh. "Don't you know that if I had a love affair with a lawyer HE would have the ring—Are you satisfied?"

But even as he slipped his ring on the slave finger of another jewel had lately been, Johns felt elided and defeated. He opened his arms to Florence in the wide sip of a gray serpent almost his for the taking, but she slipped from her chair and put the width of the office and the leaned across and caught her hands.

"Florence, I want—"

Florence had a way of anticipating wants. "Oh, don't! You mustn't kiss me now. Somebody might come in!"

"Then come in here—my office," begged the most wholehearted.

Florence bore back, curtaining her eyes before the feeling her lover's face. Slie found in the heightening of tone back to the interview, with a feminine desire to "put her cake" before it was eaten, the suggestion that to "have it too" in terms of free—

"Oh, no—no! That would seem so cold-blooded!" she cried.

"Why? Is he here? You got it," cried Johns.

"No, not he not; but I guess I'd better risk it here."

So when Jimmy came in to call in another a moment later he looked at a tableau that caused him to feel a sympathetic interest.

"What was that?" said Florence, releasing herself in amazement at her own surging feelings, and straightening her hat as Eve must have fluffed out her hair when she merged from Adam's first embrace. "Why, it was my heart—turning a double somersault! Come, make it do it again," begged Johns.

Strange Bird and Beast

The Frigate Bird a Marvel of Speed, the Hyena of Hideousness

THE haunt of that remarkable creature, the frigate bird, is the southern oceans, where it makes its nest on some lonely coast or remote island. For that purpose it selects the Crozets, Ascension or Kerguelen, along with booby gannets, "wide-awake" terns, the beautiful boatswain birds, or the queer kelp pigeon. It tears from the trees, as it flies, a few sticks and fabricates a rude platform on top of some bush or tree, or even upon a ledge of rock, and lays and hatches over a single egg—all that it needs to produce in a situation so safe and so fiercely protected.

The frigate bird is large, its sleuder but powerful wings spreading at least four feet from tip to tip, while the body is no less than forty inches from the hook of the great beak to the tip of the long forked tail. The color is blackish, with purple and green glossings, the feet are black, the bill bluish, and the pouch, which is peculiar to the male and is inflated in flight, is scarlet, as also is a ring about the eye. The pouch indicates the close relationship of these birds to the pelicans, but their habits are more like birds of prey, and one good name for the race is man-of-war hawks.

On the wing they showed perfect command of the air. Their flight is swift, bold and full of grace. They are apparently untiring, keeping away from land for weeks at a time, soaring to enormous heights and descending with amazing speed. They can ride out a hurricane, scudding low, and taking a reef in their wings so as to expose only the largest quills to the gale. They are able to support themselves for long hours with out apparent motion, and it is a beautiful sight to watch one of them hovering overhead in the morning sunshine sky, the long forked tail alternately opening and shutting like a pair of scissors and the bird swinging slowly from side to side as it is searching the horizon. Frigate birds feed on surface-swimming fish, squids, crabs and young turtles.

Here is a picturesque description of the hideous and detested hyena.

"The stinky Boers had a peculiar facility for misnaming their wild neighbors. The hyena—whose habits of the veldt, night-thieves, skulkers after sunset, strong, furtive cowards, whom all natives of Africa fear and avoid and hate—were called wolves, and it is still their name among the Boers and those who follow the veldt.

"The white hunter or traveller pays, as a rule, little serious attention to them, but to the native in his scheme of the veldt, and even in his grass hut at home, this strong, cruel robber is a perpetual menace. By daylight the women will work alone in their lands often far away from the kraals, pleoanimins out with the goats play happily in the dust, and young girls will go miles to the water holes without fear. Even in the districts infested by lyenas; but night brings a different tale. Men with their assegais may follow the narrow paths to their neighbors' kraal in the darkness without much reluctance and see and hear no wolf by the way, though they know that the shuffling coward is following their footsteps; but neither woman nor child, nor any man who is weak and ill, will open the mat screen of the hut door till daylight.

"The hyena is strong enough to kill single-handed a cow or a donkey, and occasionally he does so, but he will not face a small barking dog near camp; he will walk with a brazen impudence that a lion cannot equal right up to the fires of a noisy camp and take a leap of meat from within ten feet of a lighted lantern, but he will turn tail without any delay and without shame if a native driver runs at him with a sjambok whip. Three or four wakeful dogs are an efficient camp guard, but any dog betrayed to sleep by the fire on a cold night when these stealthy robbers are about will never see another sunrise.

"Of all the sounds of the African night in wild parts of the veldt nothing is more characteristic than the peculiar howl of the hyena. It begins on a rather low note, a loud long-drawn "ooo" gradually rising till it ends in a weird shriek. It is like no other veldt sound, and it could come from no other animal. It is part of their strange personality, and is a fit introduction to the quite extraordinary cackings and gurglings which they make when a number of them are holding revel over the carcass of a big beast.

"But there is no sound of nature in Africa to compare with their laughter. It is best seldom heard. In fifteen years I have heard such a real devil's concert but once."

An Obvious Fact

Three young children were visiting their grandmother, and the occasion was one of great excitement. After a while they proved a trifle too noisy for grandmother, and she said reproachfully, "Good gracious children, why are you so noisy today? Can't you try to be a little quieter? You are making my head ache." "Now, grandma," said six-year-old Dorothy, "you mustn't scold us. You see, it wasn't for us, you wouldn't be a grandma at all!"

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

YOUR SELF-RESPECT FORBIDS THIS

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a hard working youth of twenty and am deeply in love with a very pretty girl of eighteen. Her father (she has no mother), who is quite wealthy, seems to be very fond of me and sanctions our friendship. Recently he made a rather serious proposition to me without his daughter's knowledge. Knowing that my salary would not permit me to give his daughter the good times he desired her to have and still keep her in my company, he asked me if I would not accept money from him to spend on his daughter and myself.

Now I would like your advice as to what is the best step to take in this case, as I love the girl dearly and am sure my love is not in vain.

P. M. L.

IF the girl you are fond of cares for you, she will be willing to accept the inexpensive attentions it is in your power to give her. You would not forfeit her respect as well as your own self-respect if you permitted her father to give you money to spend on her.

FICKLENESS!

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a girl nineteen and considered good-looking. A year and a half ago I was introduced to a young man about four years my senior, whom I liked very much until I met another and neglected the first one without any explanation. I went out with the second fellow, and then a third, to whom I became engaged, and then broke my engagement because I realized that I didn't love him. Went back again with the second, and we couldn't agree. Now I regret my treatment of the first, for whom I think I cared most.

WORRIED.

IF you returned to the first allegiance you would probably find yourself imagining yourself in love with the second love, or the third, or even a fourth, still unmet. Busy yourself about some sensible work and try not to put love and sentiment in such a prominent place in your thoughts. Your fickleness is likely to cause you lasting unhappiness unless you take steps to discipline your own nature.

DON'T LET YOUR RELATIVES INFLUENCE YOU

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Will you kindly advise me if it is proper for a girl of twenty-two to marry a man of twenty-eight with two children and who has been divorced. He has been very kind to his wife, and she did not appreciate it. I knew his wife for three years. I love him and children dearly. My mother is satisfied, but my married sister and cousins and aunt say it is not proper for me to marry him.

HEARTBROKEN.

P. S.—They are all discouraging me because he has two children.

YOUR mother's advice ought to outweigh all that meddling relatives can say. Since you love this man and his little children and feel that he was not to blame for the failure of his former matrimonial ventures, marry him by all means.

For female troubles I always take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it works like a charm. I do all my own work."—Mrs. A. F. KREAMER, 1374 Electric Avenue, Lackawanna, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. We challenge anyto name even one other medicine that has been so successful in relieving woman's suffering as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

A Man and His Wife

John Hamilton Leaves Wife for Club and Is Welcomed by His Old Friends

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water

CHAPTER III.

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

ISABEL HAMILTON controlled with difficulty the inward start with which she heard her husband announce his intention of going to his club.

"Why, John," she faltered, trying to look as if she did not care, "you have not been in the habit of going to the club since our marriage. I did not suppose you had even thought of it."

"No, I have neglected it," he remarked gravely. "I've been thinking the matter over, and I've come to the conclusion that I have no right to belong to an organization unless I show some interest in it and meet its members once in a while. Some of the fellows there are my very good friends and I could hardly blame them if they took hard toward me for my seeming indifference."

"Why haven't you gone before?" his wife asked. Her manner had changed from the silent disapproval that had characterized it during dinner. She wanted to force him to state that he had found her society more attractive than that of all the men in the world. John smiled easily.

"I suppose for the same reason," he replied, "that most men when they are first married neglect their old friends. Life is changed for them and marriage is the biggest thing in the world."

"And later it becomes of less importance?" his wife queried with a touch of bitterness.

"Not at all," John demurred. "While we are on this subject let me explain and then there will be no hard feelings about the matter. When people are first married, they are absorbed in the newness of it all, their own society, their own home, each other's perfections. At last, when there are no more surprises for them, they settle down to quiet, sensible existence, in which they love each other just the same—perhaps more—but yet are not so selfish that they cannot understand that there are other people in the world who have some claim on them."

HE THINKS HE HAS MADE IT CLEAR

"I see," said the wife.

Johns Hamilton told himself that he had made the case plain and had told the truth. Yet in his soul he knew that he had not told it all, and that had his wife been her bright, cheery self this evening he would not have remembered his duty to his club, but she was evidently in a bad humor, and when a woman was peeved and quiet the club was joined than home—no matter how much he loved the woman. Naturally he could not explain this to Isabel.

Yet, if he had, it might have been a salutary thing for her. If more wives were told these facts they might understand before it is too late. And if more men knew that to keep a woman's affections it is advisable occasionally to show her loverly attentions, men might not have to complain of wives' fickleness. Both sexes love to be loved, and both like to be amused.

John's statement that he was going to his club gave Isabel a sudden sinking of the heart, but her pride combined with her temper to make her hide her unquietness. She tried to look indifferent and she hummed little tune to herself as she went into the parlor and picked up a book

"What are you going to do with yourself this evening?" asked John. Her failure to make further comment on his speech suddenly produced in him a sensation of insecurity. Did her silence mean acquiescence or displeasure?

"Oh, I shall be well enough," she said. "I have an interesting book, and plenty to do. I am never lonely."

"That's good," the husband remarked. Her indifferent attiture piqued him, even while he congratulated himself that it made his departure easier. As he went towards his club he reflected that he had taken the step that meant his right to dispose of his time as he wished. Of course he loved Isabel dearly, but she certainly knew how to be disagreeable when she was in the mood she had been in tonight. He had done all that could be expected towards conciliating her—and she would not be conciliated. He certainly would not apologize for what he had said at breakfast that morning, for he had not been in the wrong. This was a side of his wife's character he had never seen before, and he would not humor her by staying at home trying to cajole her. If she was going to be grouchy and glum, he would go where things were pleasanter—that's all. This was a man's prerogative. It was strange that women did not understand that.

HE IS WARMLY WELCOMED AT THE CLUB

He had kissed Isabel good-night, and she had had the good sense this time to let him kiss her on the lips, but she had not returned the kiss. Oh, well! Why worry about it! She would get over her hurt, and then his home would be once more the jolly little retreat it had been for the past six months.

He had reached his club by this time, and the greeting that he received from some of his old friends assembled there warmed his heart and made him rather ashamed of his fool for having stayed away for so long. He would not be so forgetful and neglectful again.

"Now that my wife and I are actually settled in our home," he told a chum of his bachelor days, who chanced to happen in, "I mean to run over here often and see all you fellows."

His companion laughed. "They all come to that, Jack, after they've been married a while," he observed. "My brother did, and I watched him do it. It always raised something of a dust when he started in at the club again, but his wife soon got used to it. And yours will, too."

How Any Woman Can Remove Hairy Growths

(Beauty Culture)

It is not longer necessary for a woman to visit a beauty specialist to have superfluous hairs removed, for, with the aid of a plain delatone paste, she can, in the privacy of her own home, remove even a stubborn growth in a very few minutes. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This is applied to the hairs and after 2 or 3 minutes removed and the skin washed, when it will be left clear and hairless. Be sure you buy real delatone.

'THE HAWK' OPENS AT THE MAJESTIC

By FREDERICK JOHNS

William Faversham in a drama of modern life and love was the attraction at the Majestic last night for a crowded and enthusiastic premiere at the Majestic, a theatre that could not be better suited to the production.

The play, "The Hawk," the name of which, Sardonic, somewhat misgives Mr. Faversham ample opportunity to display his charm in almost every scene and his ability in handling the dramatic climaxes and his powerful emotional suppression in situations of pathos.

The name of the play is applied to the character that Mr. Faversham, who, as the Count George de Danesti, a Hungarian nobleman, preys upon the fortunes of his fellow man with the same net result as in the case of his ancestor, the feudal baron, from whom he inherited his name and crest.

The role of Mme. de Tierrache, the mother of the young diplomat, is rendered most charmingly by Grace Henderson.

The stage settings for the play are well deserving of special mention, which notable well chosen.

It is announced that Mr. Faversham's stay at the Majestic is of necessarily limited.

The story of the play circles round the Case Mariana de Danetta, the Comte's wife, the role fascinatingly portrayed by Virginia Pearson. She has been a willful, selfish woman, has ably assisted her husband in winning at cards, but who has been reared to a realization of right and wrong by the frank enthusiasm and honesty of Rene de Tierrache, a young diplomat, portrayed by Edmund Tearle.

The result is inevitable. He falls in love with her, and about the time she too loves him, he discovers her complicity in her husband's gambling winnings. After which affairs become complicated; her husband, trapped, wrests from her a confession of her love for Tierrache and leaves her for him. Then he, inspired by the love that a husband must consent to a wife's divorce balks their plans, and it is necessary to find the missing Comte.

He is finally located through the efforts of Eric Drake, an American millionaire, and reaches a duel with Frank Lucas. But the Comte has fallen on evil days, has lost his money, taken to drugs and is broken.

The last act in which the sorely beset and troubled wife decides whether she shall go back to her husband or accept his consent to a divorce and marry the young diplomat provides an intense climax that holds the audience spellbound.

Of course Tierrache, in the words of Drakon, is "left to face the music."

Boston American Editorial Columns

The Boston AMERICAN advocates public ownership of public utilities.
It has long demanded Government ownership and operation of the telegraph and telephones, of the railroads and of a merchant marine.
It urges the prompt purchase of foreign ships and construction of American ships to create a permanent Government-owned mercantile fleet for the development of our commerce in time of peace and the defence of our country in time of war.

The Forces of Monopoly Fight to Control the Sea

For lack of votes wherewith to defeat the Administration Shipping bill the Republican members of the Senate have adopted the filibuster. For lack of arguments against it they employ such expedients for delaying its passage as that of Senator Gallinger, who, under the guise of instructing the Senate, read aloud every line in a Washington newspaper, including market reports and marriage licenses.

Obstruction has taken the place of opposition, and the enemies of the bill talk, not against its merits, but against the slow moving hands of the Senate clock.

While intelligent argument was the order of the Senatorial day the opponents of the measure were clearly beaten at every point of attack.

They strove to show that there was no need for a government-owned shipping line; that the supply of ships now in service was more than adequate; that the trouble lay not in lack of holds, but in lack of cargoes, and that ocean freights had not risen other than through the increased cost of war insurance.

EVERY ONE OF THESE ALLEGATIONS HAS BEEN EMPHATICALLY DISPROVED.

It is shown from official figures that since the opening of the war 5,803,014 TONS OF OCEAN GOING SHIPS HAVE BEEN WITHDRAWN FROM COMMERCIAL USES; that our docks are crammed with goods awaiting shipment; that if the increase already made in freight rates shall be continued through 1915 IT WILL IMPOSE AN EXTRA TAX OF MORE THAN $216,224,400 ON OUR EXPORT TRADE OVER AND ABOVE THE NORMAL FREIGHT CHARGES; THAT RATES ON COTTON AND GRAIN HAVE GONE UP FROM 275 TO 1,150 PER CENT., according to the port from which shipped.

They have claimed that there are no ships purchasable other than those of German registry. The response gives lists of available ships, now not in use, to a greater number than the money appropriated in this bill would purchase.

Opponents of the bill allege that Great Britain has already protested against the purchase of the German interned ships. The State Department and British Minister join in denying this. The bill's foes—being un-American at heart—without waiting for foreign suggestion, insist that the purchase of these ships would be an unneutral act. But their contention is disproved by a long list of precedents furnished by the State Department.

THE OPPONENTS OF THE GOVERNMENT SHIPPING BILL thrust aside the opinion of the counsellor of the Department of State and TAKE ALL THEIR LEGAL DOCTRINE FROM THE BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE.

Reduced to its lowest terms, however, all this war against the Shipping bill, this ocean of talk, these wordy—and wormy—arguments on diplomatic points, these all-night sessions, these false statistics and unsupportable statements, are merely the fight of privilege, of monopoly, attacked in one of its strongholds.

It is the government ownership feature of the bill which stirs up all the turmoil, and the Senators who are fighting it—Smoot, Gallinger, Burton, Lodge and Root—are the recognized champions of monopoly and privilege whenever attacked in the Senate.

The people should not be blind to the importance of this contest. In it the whole future of American commerce on the high seas is involved—not its prosecution in war time only. And it is because of the future importance of the action to be taken by this Congress that we must be alert to see that the bill be carefully safeguarded lest the government ownership feature be crippled in any way.

The provision that at some future time the ships shall be handed over to private ownership we may well leave for later correction—BUT IT MUST BE CORRECTED.

The government owned and operated line of Panama ships alone prevented the sandbagging of that great work by extortionate charges fixed by a combine of foreign ships. But foreign ships now comb ne to fix extortionate rates upon American exports. For the protection of the farmer shipping his grain to the seaboard we have the Interstate Commerce Commission. Beyond the coast nothing. But a government-owned line of ships would act as a regulator of ocean freight rates as nothing else could. Free competition on the ocean is a thing of the past.

Inland Senators appear as the principal leaders of the fight against the Shipping bill. They are acting in antagonism to the interests of their constituents, for the bulk of our exports do not come from the seaboard States, and it is upon the producers of the Middle West that will fall THAT SUPER-TAX OF $216,224,400 IN THE NEXT YEAR, WHICH THIS BILL, IF PASSED, WILL LARGELY AVERT.

It Is a Bad Plan to Drive Legislators Like Cattle

The standpat Republican organization at the State House apparently believes that it is doing something very smart when it rushes the business of legislation pell mell, making blunders in the drafting of bills, giving the public little or no time to be heard on the proposals and reducing the committees to mere puppets and automata worked by a string in the hands of the Speaker and the President of the Senate.

To a serious mind this scheme appears amateurish and silly, for several reasons. Massachusetts revolted five years ago against such performances by the standpat Republican organization. Then the important offices of the Republican State Committee were held by corporation lobbyists and the Republican organization was employed to control legislation in behalf of these big, special interests.

The people of Massachusetts have given no sign that they are

The Glory of One Is to Destroy; the Glory of the Other Is to Build

THE ISLAND OF THE BLESSED!

By Percy Shaw

("Can you let me know what positions you have to reward deserving Democrats?"—William Jennings Bryan, Secretary of State, in a letter to W. W. Vick, San Domingo.)

THE Isle of San Domingo in the spicy Southern seas
Is an unexploited vista of illimitable ease:
Its people live a happy life with nothing much to do
But eat and sleep and smoke and drink and comment on the view;
No wonder that Chautauqua Bill, with vision overjoyed,
Beheld it as a mecca for his weary unemployed;
No wonder that his mighty heart expanded as he said:
"Let all the men who worked for me come hither and be fed.
"No Democrat shall ask in vain, for offices galore
"Are waiting for the faithful on the rich Domingan shore."

They stood in long and joyous line and blessed him as he cried:
"I'd rather help my fellow man than win the world beside.
"The U. S. A. will pay your fare, but once you step on land
"Embrace the trusting natives with the politician's hand.
"Tell them how happy they should be to have you as their own,
"And that you hope to gaily reap what they have hardly sown.
"Then, with a diplomatic bow, turn in your bills and smile
"To think that I directed you to San Domingo Isle.

"And when you sit about at eve, beneath the Southern skies,
"And count your gold and dream of home and 80-horsepower cars;
"And when the simple-minded folks kow-tow to do your will,
"Pray spare a kindly phrase or two for old Chautauqua Bill.
"And so I bid you all farewell, and every little while
"May all your salaries increase on fair Domingo's Isle."

Inklings and Thinklings

By WEX JONES

Girl gets $1,000 damages for the loss of a toe. "This little pig went to court."

See the French are using lawn tennis nets as a defence against hand grenades. Why not organize a grenadier battalion of lacrosse players? They could shoot the little bombs in like rifle bullets.

Profit sharing is a great scheme, but if times changed how would the bunch greet loss sharing?

Connecticut has a pussy that says Spring has arrove, and New Jersey reports frogs and bees with the same idea. However, in view of what has happened to the war prophets we'll hang on to our rubbers a bit longer.

In Time of Peace Prepare for Peace

By BISHOP SAMUEL FALLOWS

(Illinois Department Commander of the G. A. R., formerly brigade commander of the Army of Tennessee, former chaplain-in-chief and national patriotic instructor of the G. A. R., now chaplain of the Second Infantry, I. N. G., and the ranking chaplain of the Illinois National Guard.)

NO man who has the slightest knowledge of the subject would say we are prepared. We are not.

I would change George Washington's aphorism to read:

"In time of peace prepare for peace."

The best preparation is adequate provision for self-defence.

I believe perhaps President Wilson didn't say all that was in his mind. Perhaps he didn't want to give the rest of the world, which watches his utterances as President carefully, the knowledge that we are not prepared. That, of course, must create a false sentiment in this country by leading our citizens to believe that we are ready.

No one can predict what we may be called upon to face at any time, now that Europe has proclaimed the new philosophy that nations cannot deal together as individuals on a plane of honor. This, in effect, means that each nation is supreme—that no combination of nations can be superior. It does away with our Hague peace tribunal and compels every nation to rely on its own resources.

The National Guard ought to be stiffened and properly equipped. It should be kept up to its full maximum strength all the time.

I believe that of our 100,000,000 population 20,000,000 are able-bodied men. Is it too much to ask that one-fourth of this number, or one-third, be trained in the elementary principles of military movements and in the bearing of arms? I think not.

Let us give them six months' training. Let us drill them and provide for proper target practice. This country has forgotten the Civil War, when not one man in one thousand had any knowledge of military drill, and hardly one in one hundred had ever shot a gun.

This, even, is not enough. There are not guns enough for those men or ammunition for them to fire. We must have them. The European war teaches us that most of our guns are obsolete. We must be ready to meet the 42-centimeter guns with others of equal measure, served by trained men, and with plenty of ammunition. We must have aerial craft, ships, everything to cope with all the advances in the science of warfare that Europe is displaying.

Those who say our extended coast line and our great Eastern and Western mountain ranges are sufficient protection are teaching a dangerous lesson. Suppose no enemy could penetrate far into the interior of our country. Shall we leave our great coast cities, with their tremendous wealth and wonderful beauty, at the mercy of any enemy? Never!

The newspapers of this country should put the situation before the people. They are ready to listen and to insist that the proper steps be taken. The AMERICAN is doing a splendid thing to agitate the matter, and it should never let it drop, but continue the fight until "in time of peace we are prepared for peace."

Girls Should Be Taught Their Duties at Home

Miss Lathrop's Plan to Educate Young Women in Household Economy Is Wise and Timely, Says Ella Wheeler Wilcox

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

MISS JULIA LATHROP, chief of the Children's Bureau, advances the theory that girls should be taught household economy between graduation from school and marriage.

"Women are the real spenders of the world," said Miss Lathrop, "and we must admit they are not so wise on the subject as they should be. I believe a new era of home education is about to dawn."

Outside of a school of eugenics and sex hygiene for men graduates, there could be no greater impetus given to the world for the improvement of the home life and the coming generations than such an intermediary course as Miss Lathrop suggests. Woman has always been regarded as the keeper of the home, and the provider of comforts for husband and children out of the proceeds of the man's income. But she has made a rather questionable showing of efficiency when we realize how long she has been engaged in the occupation.

There was a book published in the early fifties by Alexander Walker which discourses on woman in every relation to life. Speaking of her duties Mr. Walker says:

"Woman, therefore, is fit only for sedentary occupations, and necessarily remains much in the interior of the house, in which alone her chief duties can be performed.

"Perhaps the most important of her natural duties, though first indicated after that of clothing, is the preparation of food for her family. I call this a natural duty, not merely because it belongs to the domestic occupations which are naturally those of woman, but because it originates in the strictly personal circumstance of nourishing her infant. As more abundant or different nutriment is required, she gradually substitutes the milk of the cow. Repeating this for an increasing family, she is naturally and inevitably led to prepare the food of the whole.

"Such is evidently the natural origin of the mother being the sole or chief cook of her family. She who escapes from all these duties is an unnatural being, not a woman; and that deformity, if not disease, is the punishment of their neglect is demonstrated in the beautiful forms of the arms, in the pictures of our grandmothers, compared with the shapeless, flaccid and skinny members of the young women of our own times."

Times have changed since Mr. Walker wrote those words, and woman is quite as much at home in outdoor life and sports as man. She is an able rival in athletics, and her sphere of activity has enlarged.

But her skill in making and maintaining a home of beauty and comfort economically has not increased at the same rate. A school of home education where all school and college graduates entered immediately after receiving their diplomas for mental achievements would be of the utmost value to the world. A two or three years' course ought to be sufficient, and the diplomas received from this institution would be of greater value to humanity than all degrees and honors previously won.

America would place itself in the front ranks as a world improver if it established a national institution where tuition could be obtained at a nominal price, or absolutely free, leaving pupils to provide only for board and personal expenses.

Let Miss Lathrop enlarge on her great ideal and make it a material success. Then let us have a post-graduate school for young men who have left college which educates them in the high ideals of home life and fatherland. If we perfect women as home keepers and mothers, we must fit men to be worthy of them.

Every day divorces are granted to women for all sorts of causes.

Men must be educated in eugenics; they must be taught the great law of self-control, and they must understand the high meaning of the words husband and father. Then we will find marriage growing to be a success and divorce an obsolete word.

willing to submit to the return of these old, disreputable, lobbying orgies.

The Republican standpat organization has been defeated for five successive years. Some prominent gentlemen among these standpatters affect to believe that the last election gave a strong indication of returning Republican strength. When a Republican organization finds encouragement from its defeat IN MASSACHUSETTS at the hands of Governor Walsh by twelve thousand plurality and by a minority IN MASSACHUSETTS of nearly forty thousand, we can understand how it has fallen. Its control of the Legislature is only due to a vicious gerrymandered system by which a MINORITY of the voters is represented by a MAJORITY of the representatives in the Legislature.

It is already apparent that this foolish attempt to bring back the old regime and the old machine is breaking down. The House has already begun to overthrow the reports of these puppet committees WHO ARE NOT EVEN ALLOWED TO VISIT THE GOVERNOR WITHOUT THE CHAPERONAGE OF THE SPEAKER AND THE PRESIDENT OF THE SENATE.

There is no need of such great haste in our legislative work. It is important work. It should be done carefully and deliberately. Every interest in the Commonwealth suffers from this method of controlling our Legislature and driving our legislators headlong like so many cattle except those interests who are well enough organized to take advantage of it. They are the few big, special interests, and none others.

A Loss to the State

The death of Judge Ratigan is a real loss to the State. The Commonwealth was deprived of his service just as it began.

Thousands of persons in Worcester County, where he lived and practiced his profession, will mourn him.
